THINGS WE RECOMMEND YOU HAVE AVAILABLE FOR ASSEMBLY:

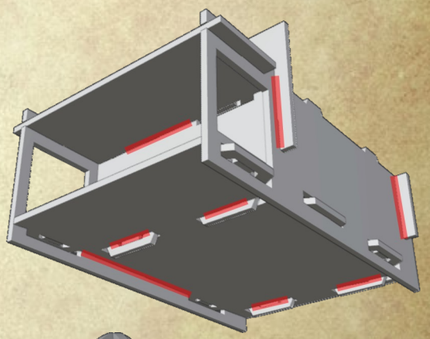
- Small flat-blade screwdriver or small blade (e.g. pen knife).
- White glue

CARE & MAINTENANCE

These buildings and terrain pieces are made of heavy duty 1/8", high-density material, and are finished with a sealing varnish. Once assembled correctly, the pieces will lock firmly into place, creating a durable structure that should stand up to normal use indefinitely.

The material may be damaged if exposed to water. Store the buildings and terrain in a dry place and avoid spilling any kind of liquid on them. The integrity of the material will be compromised if you subject it to a lot of moisture.

These pieces are not designed to be taken apart once assembled. Although you can do this, repeated assembly and disassembly over time will weaken the locking tabs and slots and they may cease to fit snugly.



If you want your buildings and terrain to remain in great shape, after assembling, run a small bead of white glue (the kind that dries clear) along the underside of the buildings and along the narrow tabs on the sides of the buildings as shown. Also, a small bead of white glue along the junction of the smaller pieces will insure that they do not come apart. See picture on the right.

Although gluing is not required, it will help insure your terrain stands up to a lot of use.

Remember not to glue the roofs or second floors in place.

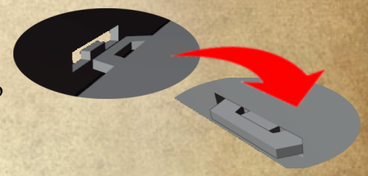
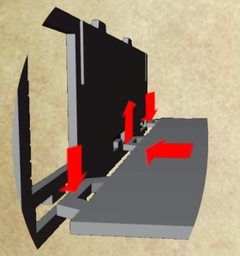
GENERAL ASSMBLY NOTES

The part number for each piece is printed either next to the piece or on the removable tabs. The parts for each building have color-coded outlines for easy identification. Before you start assembling, review the parts inventory on the assembly instructions and gather the required pieces from the various sheets. Once you have the parts for a building collected, organized them by STEP and then remove the tabs.

Many of the pieces have punch-out slots that need to be removed carefully before assembling. A small flat-head screwdriver or other sharp tool may be useful for popping out these small parts. When removing small pieces from the punchboard sheets, push them out from the back of the sheet.

The building pieces snap together with a tongue-and-slot design. When assembling these pieces, apply gentle pressure to align the tab with the wide slot and then press firmly together until it snaps down over the locking tab and locks into place. Note: if the laminate on the tab starts to lift away because of tight fit, use your thumbnail, a small flat-blade screwdriver or other sharp tool to tuck it back into the slot.





When attaching the side walls, insert the front tab first and then work your way back, applying light pressure up and down to align the middle and rear tabs before snapping all three tabs into place.

When attaching front and back walls, slide them down into the slots of the side walls (1) until the tabs rest on the floor. Apply gentle pressure forward or backward to each tab (2) to align all tabs with slots before pressing down and locking all the tabs into place.
